BAY ST. LOUIS, MISSISSIPPI

SINGLE COPY 50 CENTS

TWO SECTIONS OF THE

BY RICHARD MEEK
Bay St. Louis City Council member Carleen Moran has successfully spearheaded the defeat of a proposed office development on Dunbar Avenue.

Moran had appeared before the Bay St. Louis Planning & Zoning Commission on Oct. 15 to express her opposition to Sharon Stockstill's proposal to have the property rezoned from R-3 (multi-family residential use) to Commercial. Moran, who lives nearby, told the P&Z she was "concerned with the continually increasing commercial presence in the neighborhood."

Stockstill had planned to build small offices and a parking lot on the site. The property is located on Dunbar near Esplanade, adjacent to the Market Town, (Jitney Jungle) Shopping Center.

After much discussion, the "(Moran) should have recused herself...I was a bit surprised that (the council) voted so quickly without Mrs. Stockstill's representation...The development would have upgraded the neighborhood."

John Bezou

P&Z unanimously voted to approve Stockstill's application. But on Tuesday during a City Council meeting, Moran made the motion to deny Stockstill her application, and without discussion, the City Council voted her way.

Moran repeated her same concerns on Tuesday, saying that the property, which measures 60'x560' "does not lend itself to commercialization without destroying the buffer (to the surrounding neighborhood)."

She said Stockstill's proposed development would affect the "safety, health and welfare of the neighborhood because of the congestion in the area."

A blight at the entrance to Pass Christian may soon be replaced by a luxury condominium development.

The plans by HP Real Properties Inc. to tear down the vacant and deteriorating Sunflower or Winn-Dixie Shopping Center facing U.S. 90 come before the City Planning Commission at a meeting scheduled at the library behind City Hall at 5:30 p.m. today.

Mayor Billy McDonald and most city aldermen have already endorsed the project, but there has been some token opposition from surrounding property owners, although the area is already zoned C-3 Highway Commercial and condo developments are an allowable use.

Demolition crews are already on site, and plans are to construct 218 condo units. The first floor elevation will be raised 14 feet to comply with flood zone requirements, and the complex will be four stories high. Also planned are a clubhouse, tennis courts, a spa and indoor and outside swimming pools.

Bob Hunt, a Pass Christian engineer, is a managing partner in the development. Others include North Carolina home builder Patsy Pike, along with investors Beverly Thorburn of North Carolina and Patty and John Scurlock of New Orleans.

Except for a real estate office, the shopping center has been mostly vacant for about eight years, and has been a thorn in the side of city leaders, who frequently threatened the out-of-town owners with fines and warnings because the property had fallen into disrepair and was a favorite target for

Two teenagers were arrested and charged with obstruction in connection with placing objects on a train track that could have caused the train's derailment.

Hancock County Chief Deputy Nathan Hoda said Barry Carter and Ronnie Earhart, both 17, and from the Heron Bay area, had allegedly placed two five-gallon oil cans in the path of a train on Tuesday night. Later that night, they allegedly placed a 40-pound cement block with lumber behind it on the tracks, Hoda said.

The objects were placed on an interchange in the Anasley area, Hoda said. He said there was no reported damage, but either one of the obstructions could have caused a derailment.

Hancock County Deputy Sheriff Phillip Pavolini received word last week that a stolen vehicle stereo was located in a truck at a Deer Park Subdivision residence, Hancock Investigator George Burren said.

Pavolini was checking into the vehicular burglary in the Flat Top area of the county when he stumbled across the information.

Further investigation by Burleson and Pavolini also resulted in the arrest of several persons, in addition to a warrant for another in connection with

Mike Brouseard holds a stop sign at the south end of the "Broco" bridge as it crosses the railroad crossing at Bonkter Lake. The bridge, which Brouseard spent over three years building, is a slick looking craft at the corner of the road and the railroad tracks. The craft was launched at the Jourdan River Marine and moved to the crossing where Brouseard said it should take another six months to complete. The bridge is 100 feet long and 12 feet wide. LOUIS SUMMERS
 Born Oct. 21, 1933
 Died Oct. 20, 1997

I know you've been laid to rest now for years.
 How I long for that kiss, hug and that pat on my head, even that surprise in your shirt pocket.
 But I know that you have no more cries of pain, so it's easier to understand why He took you away from us.
 I know we'll be reunited again one day, but until then, you're never forgotten.

Love,

Thoughts for meditation:
 Few of us know how to grow old gracefully.
 Teach us to number our days aright, that we may gain a heart of wisdom.

Psalm 90:12
 Wisdom is a divine endowment and not a human acquisition.

If any of you lacks wisdom, he should ask God, who gives generously to all without finding fault, and it will be given to him.

James 1:5
 To get rid of an enemy, one must love him.

Congratulations to Tyler Breland, newest member of our parish family, who was baptized last weekend.

The parish luncheon last weekend was a big success due to the many dedicated (volunteers) parishioners and friends who gave their time, effort and skill to the success of the parish luncheon.

All Saints Vigil is scheduled for 9 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 1 at St. John Church, Lakeshore. ...Visitation and Blessing of the Caskets follow in Lakeshore.

Beginning Saturday, Nov. 1, St. Ann's Vigil Mass will be changed to 4 p.m. until next spring.

St. Ann's new catechetical building in Clermont Harbor is progressing well, and we should be in the new building about mid-November.

Those who are seriously ill should be given the opportunity to receive the Sacrament of the Anointing of the Sick as soon as possible.

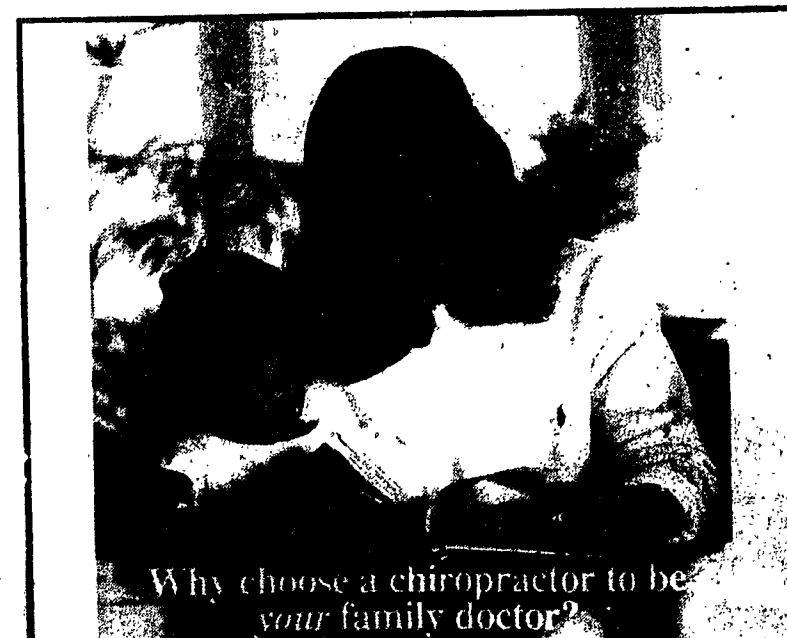

The Open Door

May I never be too busy when someone comes to call to sit a while and give a smile and not act bored at all.

If, by some chance, he needs help for a sad and lonely heart, I'll lend an ear and offer cheer before he must depart.

If I cannot solve his problem, I can, perhaps, ease the pain by being kind, so he will find he's welcome back again.

Demonstrations by Police and Fire Departments are designed to educate the public on safety and protective measures they can employ to have a high quality environment for living in Bay St. Louis.

Fire Department activities will include, CPR demonstrations, children's fire safety classes, fire extinguisher demonstrations, children's coloring contest, "Jaws of Life" demonstrations and fire truck and safety equipment display.

The Police Department will offer, bicycle registrations, Explorer Troop recruiting, SWAT Team demonstrations, Neighborhood Watch Outreach, K-9 demonstrations, Kid Print, gang and cult discussions and a kids obstacle course.

Make A Difference is a national event and is the largest community service effort in the nation. This will mark Bay St. Louis' first organized effort to join millions of Americans across the nation.

The Mayor and Bay St. Louis Council have declared October 1997 as Public Safety Month and encourages everyone to take advantage of this great, free day planned for the community.

I hope to see you there Saturday.

Members of the St. Stanislaus Gridiron Club have been busy in making preparation for tonight's spaghetti dinner benefit.

Carl Guy, spokesman for the group, reports the group got together recently to make the meatballs from scratch.

The event will be from 5:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. in the Stanislaus Mall, and dinners will be for a donation of $5 each.

It will be an all-you-can-eat affair, and one can dine in or take out.

Chefs for the occasion are Chappy Chapman and Neil Favre.

I hope to see you at the spaghetti dinner tonight.

It will be time change Sunday, as daylight saving time ends.

On Saturday night when you turn in, you need to set your clocks back one hour.

I know there are some of you out there waiting for me to give the wrong direction, but after being caught many years ago, I remember spring forward and fall backward on the clock changing.

Myself, I wish they would settle one way or the other and keep the clock the same throughout the year.

Dancing at The Depot, sponsored by the Bay St. Louis Development Foundation is set for Saturday, Oct. 25, 6 to 10 p.m.

A Halloween theme will be the focus of the event with music by the Pat Murphy Band of Bay St. Louis.

There will be an apple bobbin' contest and a "spooky" storytelling session for children. Halloween costume attire is recommended.

It is set to be a fund time for all ages. Refreshments will be available.

It took a lot of years, but, Ole Miss has finally repaid LSU for the Billy Cannon's Halloween run.

I sure got tired of see reruns of Cannon's run on television.

So, I guess we can say the Rebels and Tigers are once again even.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Change needed in reporting 'court news'

To the Editor:

The "court news" being published is of public record. Any one interested and nosy enough about someone else's business can go the courthouse and look up the information.

Definition of nosy: inquisitive, curious, snooping, snoop, prying, etc., which is the reputation Hancock County is known for already. We don't need to add any more to it.

There must be other more interesting news in our community to report or write about. It doesn't give visitors a very good impression about Hancock County. We need positive things to read about concerning our area.

I don't know what other cities and towns are doing about this type of publication, but I can't see what this type of publication proves.

Eventually the "court news" will take up most of the news. I'm not interested in who didn't pay their bills, or who's in jail, for whatever. We live in a small town. If it involves someone I know, then I will know about it without reading it in the paper.

The fact is, it will and does affect the children involved. Other children tease them. It puts family members through undue hurt. Children can be cruel, and some adults can be too. It doesn't set a very good example. We all at one time or other have problems.

We need positive things to report or write about.

Parent angered about having to pick up son's report card

Dear Editor:

After school hours Friday, Oct. 17, my son handed me a note that included a schedule of when I was expected to arrive at his school, Bay Middle, to pick up his report card. This note was signed by Lou Monti, his teacher, and told me to be there between 2 and 2:10 p.m.

That evening, my former spouse received a computer-generated telephone message directing a parent to appear at Bay High School to pick up the report card of my other son. Both messages were preemptive.

Mrs. Monti's note said, "For the first and third nine weeks, report cards will be picked up by the parents of our students." (Italics added)

I do not for one minute believe that Mrs. Monti is the original source of this idiotic decision. I am quite sure that the source is someone on our beloved school board, someone who by now will surely wish to remain anonymous.

It may interest the school board to remember that they were elected to serve at the pleasure of the people. The people were not elected to serve at the pleasure of the school board.

I am also sure that I am not the only member of a two-job family. I will be forced to miss a day of work in order to pick up report cards for two students who make excellent grades and do not fail to bring messages home from school.

Mrs. Monti closed her note with a sentence that indicated that she would try to work with me on an inconvenient time slot. That is fine, very nice of her. The problem is the timing of this wonderful gesture. I'd have to take a day off just to call her and tell her that this whole idea is inconvenient.

I hope my other son's teacher is as accommodating. Then next time, the two of them can buddy up, swim out to the reef, visit me at work, and deliver the report cards.

We have a postal system that works wonderfully well nearly all of the time. The schools need to use it. If my child is having a problem, by all means write me and ask for a meeting. I will be happy to schedule it regardless of my need to make a living.

As long as my child is showing up every day and progressing satisfactorily, don't expect me to lose a day's work just so you can tell me that. Mail the report card, and I will sign it and mail it back. An education is about developing intelligence and common sense. I think it is about time our educators showed that they possess some of these qualities to pass on.

This whole thing leaves me with a list of things that I will do:

I will pick up these cards, I will present a bill for lost income,

I will expect to be paid, and I will do my best to make sure that the present school board becomes the former school board after the next election, which as sure as God made little green apples, will occur.

Sincerely,
Thomas F. Miller

Diamondhead resident feels post office serves well

To the Editor:

We need a post office in Diamondhead? Like we need a four-lane highway, probably not as much!

The facility we have serves us very well — in fact, much better than the one in the Bay.

There is always parking and easy access, and the personnel are so helpful and cheerful. Anyone smell pork chops frying?

DPS announces new DUI policy

By Jim Ingram,
Commissioner
Department of Public Safety

The Mississippi Supreme Court in a recent case Sept. 4, held that a person whose driver's license had been previously suspended administratively could not be prosecuted criminally for driving under the influence; such prosecution would constitute double jeopardy.

Since Sept. 4, the Department of Public Safety has been flooded with cases from courts dismissing DUI offenses on the grounds of double jeopardy.

There have been over 1,000 cases statewide dismissed due to the double jeopardy issue.

During the past month, we have had over 100 DUI cases dismissed in the Jackson area, 50 in the City of Jackson alone.

One of the Justices wrote that driving is a necessity for most Mississippians, and we agree. However, a driver's license is a privilege, not a right. We must protect the public.

In 1996 in Mississippi, 33,542 persons were arrested and charged with DUI. In Mississippi in 1996, 40.5 percent of the traffic fatalities were alcohol related.

As Commissioner of the Department of Public Safety, this matter has been discussed personally with Gov. Fordice, his legal staff and members of the Attorney General's staff.

The Attorney General's staff has filed a motion for rehearing, and this is before the Mississippi Supreme Court at this time.

However, we have advised in over 4,000 letters sent to judges, prosecutors and law enforcement that a new Department of Public Safety policy is now in effect.

As the Commissioner charged with carrying out the provisions of DUI laws, when a person is charged initially with DUI, we will decline to enforce the administrative license suspension procedure allowing the criminal prosecution to proceed.

If the person is convicted, this would allow the court to impose the appropriate criminal punishment, and then we at the Department of Public Safety would impose the appropriate driver license suspension.

This does not apply to B.A.C. (blood alcohol content) test refusals.

Clark returns $4 million to Gulf Coast in tidelands

Secretary of State Eric Clark this week presented a check for more than $4 million to the Department of Marine Resources from tideland lease revenue on the Mississippi Gulf Coast last year.

"This money is collected from tideland lease holders — primarily casinos — and returned to the people of the Gulf Coast," Clark said. "By effectively managing our tidelands, this money helps improve the Gulf Coast quality of life and keep local taxes low."

The total amount of $4,043,151 returned to the DMR is from fiscal year 1997.

The Secretary of State's Office negotiates leases as trustee of the public trust tidelands. The revenue collected is appropriated by the Mississippi Legislature through the Department of Marine Resources.

A list of recent projects approved by the Legislature is available from the Secretary of State's Office. Examples include: improving fishing and public piers, acquiring wetlands, building marinas and improving public beach facilities.

More than $15 million in tidelands lease revenue has been collected in the last five years, Clark said. "This check shows the people of Mississippi getting a good annual return on their property," Clark said. "That's why I am dedicated to preserving the tidelands program and ensuring that every entity that is required to sign a lease with the state does so."

Making sure we know more

Q Where in Mississippi could a lightning research company on the other side of the world turn to in a flash for assistance?

A Scientists with Hobart, Australia-based Lightning Protection International came this summer to Mississippi State University to evaluate something called an early streamer emission, a type of lightning protection system. The company worked with the university's High Voltage Laboratory to generate data that provides definite measurements of its system. The Mississippi State University is the largest independent nonindustrial research operation of its kind in North America, attracting several international clients and a steady stream of American companies just another way Mississippi universities are making sure we know more.

Diet, exercise key to seniors' health

As you age, it's important to get enough exercise and eat a healthful diet. But, experts say, "healthful diet" means different things to different people, especially when those people are over 65.

While the dietary key to good health for everyone is to eat a well-balanced diet of foods from all the food groups, older people have some special needs.

For instance, studies show that the elderly produce less stomach acid than younger people do, which interferes with the body's absorption of vitamins B-12 and B-6, folacin, iron, calcium and zinc.

Deficiencies in these nutrients can affect the nervous system and lead to depression and memory loss. And insufficient calcium can cause osteoporosis, or loss of bone mass. When bones become thin and brittle, they break more easily.

Liver, red meat, poultry, eggs, milk and shellfish supply vitamin B-12. Whole grains, dried beans, red meat, poultry, potatoes, bananas, eggs and nuts provide vitamin B-6. Dairy products are a good source of calcium.

Exercise for health
Even for the elderly, exercise is essential for health, experts say.

Regular weight-bearing exercise deposits calcium in the bones, reducing the risk of osteoporosis. Exercise also helps people over 65 maintain muscle mass, facilitates respiratory function, mobility and ambulatory capacity and improves overall strength.

Aerobic exercise promotes cardiovascular health

Nutrition in an eggshell

Another essential for good health is maintaining normal body weight. Experts recommend eating nutrient-dense foods — foods with a high proportion of nutrients to calories.

Good choices include fish, poultry, eggs, low-fat dairy products, grains, fruits and vegetables.

To get you started, here are some ways to add eggs to your diet:

- Use leftover meats and vegetables in omelets or skillet scrambles.
- Keep hard-cooked eggs handy for quick and easy snacks. They can be stored in the refrigerator in their shells for up to one week.

- Sprinkle chopped hard-cooked eggs on salads and soups. Also use them in casseroles or pasta salad.

- Cook scrambled eggs in the microwave for a quick and easy breakfast.

- If you're one of the minority of people who need to watch their dietary cholesterol intake, use one egg and two egg whites per serving. Egg whites have no fat.

- Bake an egg in a green pepper or tomato.

For more ideas, send for the brochure Gold Star Diet Tips for the Platinum Generation. It's available from the Egg Nutrition Center, Dept. NU, 2301 M St., N.W., Suite 405, Washington, DC 20037.

Nursing home isn't always the answer

By Kathleen Gilmartin, RN
Interim Health Care

Dear Kathleen: My husband suffered a stroke last year and is now in a wheelchair. I've tried to help him get around, but last week he fell and broke his hip getting out of bed.

He's just too much for me to care for. But we still enjoy being together in the comfort of our home. The last thing I want is to move him to a nursing home — please help!

Mrs. Sara Martone
Tampa, Fla.

Dear Sara: Don't give up. There are answers. A home health care agency could be of service to you. Call to ask if the agency will send a nurse to your home for a free medical assessment of your husband's needs.

In your husband's case, the home health care agency might provide a physical therapist or a nurse to ensure the safety and appropriateness of his care.

In addition, a home health aide could visit daily to help your husband get out of bed, dress and assist with his personal care.

Make sure the home health care agency sends a registered nurse to supervise the aides on a regular basis. The good news: It's possible that all these costs will be fully covered by Medicare.

Call 1-800-944-8888 with your questions for Kathleen Gilmartin or for more information about home health care.

Take a walk— It could save your life

By James S. Todd, MD

We all know that exercise is good for us. It lowers blood pressure, reduces cholesterol and helps relieve anxiety, depression and stress.

But finding the time and the energy for a strenuous workout can be difficult. Now, however, the Center for Disease Control suggests that even simple, everyday activity can provide a useful level of exercise.

Just 30 minutes a day of mild activity such as gardening, raking leaves, taking short walks or climbing the stairs is all you need.

You don't even have to do it all at one time. Instead, you can scatter your workout throughout the day. Take a 15-minute walk at lunch, spend 10 minutes raking leaves and five minutes vacuuming.

Even seniors can profit from a variety of exercises. A recent Tufts University study found that regular exercise helped people 90 and older move more comfortably and perform daily activities more easily, even when they are coping with chronic illness or are wheelchair bound.

With America searching for ways to cut soaring health care costs, this news couldn't have come at a better time. Nearly a quarter million deaths each year can be attributed to physical inactivity.

Those who don't exercise are at risk for stroke, heart disease, hypertension, gout and gall-bladder disease.

Smokers put themselves additionally at risk. These problems add significantly to our health care bill and diminishing quality of life.

We can help save millions of dollars and lives by taking a few preventive measures.

So next time you reach for your car keys, think about walking instead. Exercise and quit smoking. Your loved ones will thank you.

Diabetics need vitamins, minerals

Half of the 16 million people who are walking around with diabetes have not yet been diagnosed.

There's an epidemic out there. By the time they are diagnosed, many already have damage from the complications of diabetes.

What can you do if you have or are predisposed to diabetes? Dr. Richard Podell, clinical professor at New Jersey's Robert Wood Johnson Medical School, thinks you should take supplements.

Painful nerve damage from diabetes is one of this illness's most feared complications. Although there are no effective medicinal treatments, recent research has shown that primrose oil can prevent and partly reverse the nerve-damage process.

Diabetics often prove to be deficient in vitamins and minerals, like vitamin E, zinc, magnesium and, occasionally, chromium. These deficiencies may reflect a reduced ability to absorb and utilize nutrients.

Less common nutrients, like bioflavonoids, amino acids and coenzymes, are also useful.

In 1995, an Italian study found that the amino acid taurine reversed the abnormal tendency of blood platelets to clot as they do in diabetes. Diabetics have a greater need than most people for specific nutrients.

A new supplement for diabetics is being offered by The Green Turtle Bay Vitamin Co.

Inc., Diabetiks, the company's newly launched dietary supplement, was formulated by a physician to be taken with a multivitamin. It is sold in pharmacies and health-food stores.

For more information, call 1-800-887-8535.

Dr. Podell, author of "Patient Power" (Simon & Schuster), recommends that people with diabetes discuss their special nutritional needs with their physician.

Don't go to your eye exam unprepared

To get the most benefit from an eye examination, it is important to be prepared to take an active part in it.

Facts about your health, how you use your eyes, and any problems you are having with your eyes or vision are the things your optometrist wants and needs to know, according to the American Optometric Association.

It's a good idea to gather the facts at home and write them down so nothing is forgotten. Gather the information about:

- chronic health conditions, like high blood pressure, diabetes or allergies you or close family members have. Since your eyes are a part of your body, they are affected by your general health.

- eye health problems, like glaucoma, that run in your family.

- prescription and nonprescription medications, including birth control pills and acne medications with tetracyclines, you are taking. Drugs sometimes can affect your eyes and vision.

- how you use your eyes at work. Your optometrist needs to know what your work tasks are, how long and how often you do them, the distance between your eyes and each task, and details about your work environment.

Such information helps determine the exact prescription and any special lens design needed to give you sharp, comfortable vision on the job.

- Your hobbies and sports. You may use your eyes differently for recreational activities than you do on the job. You may need a special pair of glasses or eye-safety equipment for your hobby or sport.

- problems or difficulties you are having with your eyes. These are of ten significant clues in helping to pinpoint a vision problem. Some things you might note are blurred vision at any seeing distance; momentary blurred vision when changing your view from a distant object to a near one or vice versa; double vision; seeing spots or floaters; a change in your ability to see or distinguish colors; accident-proneness; headaches; difficulty seeing at night or in dim light; or burning, itching or tired eyes.

'Winterproof' your skin to fight off dryness

Each barren tree is a subtle reminder that the cold winter months are here. It also means it's time to "winterproof" your skin to prevent the development of dry skin conditions.

Low humidity, heaters and layered clothing, all elements of the winter season, contribute to the depletion of natural moisture found in human skin.

All research on the treatment of dry skin suggests that by building "moisture reservoirs" in their skin, men and women can encourage healthy lipogenesis and remarkably improve the attractiveness of their skin.

The key to building these moisture reservoirs is to start and maintain a daily skin-care regimen.

To start this daily routine, Dr. Eugene Gans, chairman of research for Medicis, The Dermatology Co., suggests the following four tips:

- Step 1: Follow a well-balanced diet.

A well-balanced diet with foods supplying some essential oil and rich in vitamin A and the antioxidants vitamins C and E and plenty of water (at least one quart a day) are important in helping to discourage dry skin.

- Step 2: Seal in moisture after bathing, showering and swimming.

Too much exposure to water causes skin to become waterlogged. As a result, cell membranes near the skin's surface leak and rupture and produce excessive loss of moisture or "dryness rebound."

To seal in moisture after a sauna, bath or shower, you should apply a light, greasless oil-based moisturizer to the entire body.

- Step 3: Gently cleanse the skin to make moisturizers work better.

Tests show that very gentle pre-cleansing boosts a moisturizer's penetration and often can increase moisturizer efficacy by 25 percent to 50 percent.

Therefore, before applying a moisturizer, you should wash your skin with a mild cleanser and pat dry. People with extra dryness should apply a second coat of moisturizer to dry areas.

- Step 4: Rehydrate skin overnight.

Cold-weather conditions rob skin of moisture. An overnight rehydration and humidifying treatment will leave hands, feet and body completely moisturized. To counteract dry conditions on the hands and feet, you periodically should massage them with a heavy moisturizer.

Cover hands with a pair of nicely fitted cotton gloves and feet with a pair of cotton socks, and the next morning, your hands and feet will feel softer and smoother.

Humidifiers that kept you cool during the summer months are especially useful in winter months for rehydrating and soothing dry skin. You should put distilled or purified water in the humidifier.

Ideally, humidifiers should be used on a daily basis either when the humidity is low and/or when the outside temperature falls below 40 F.

For a brochure outlining more information on treating dry skin, contact Medicis at 1-800-716-4606.

Macular degeneration: cause of vision loss

Many of those past mid-life accept declining vision as a natural consequence of aging, but it also may be caused by a serious disease, such as macular degeneration, the leading cause of vision loss in people over 60 in this country.

Macular degeneration involves problems with the macula, the central part of the retina that provides sharp, clear central vision.

Even mild cases can impair a person's ability to read, drive a car, recognize a face or perform close work such as sewing. It is the cause of "legal blindness" in people over 60.

Macular degeneration is usually a primary disease, unrelated to other eye diseases or medical problems, although it may result from injuries, inflammation or vascular disease.

Usually associated with aging, it can start earlier in life. Macular degeneration may run in families, though no direct hereditary link has been established.

Early symptoms can take several forms, ranging from blurred reading to distortion of straight lines. Other symptoms include problems with glare, increased sensitivity to bright lights, and difference in vision between eyes, such as when objects or colors do not appear the same for each eye.

Macular degeneration cannot be reversed, but a very small percentage of people can be helped with laser treatment. It is important to consult an eye doctor immediately when any vision loss occurs.

Those who have lost detail vision in both eyes should consult a low-vision specialist for help in maximizing remaining vision and learning about appropriate vision aids.

People who believe they may have macular degeneration should contact their ophthalmologist immediately.

Information on macular degeneration and other visual impairments is available from the National Association for Visually Handicapped, 22 West 21st St., New York, NY 10010, 1-212-889-3141; the Association For Macular Diseases Inc., 210 East 64th St., New York, NY 10021, 1-212-605-3719; and Macular Degeneration Foundation Inc., P.O. Box 686, Palm Beach, FL 33480-0686, 1-407-820-9215.

Age-old remedy gives new relief from arthritis

In grandmother's day, aloe vera was an ornamental plant often called the "Medicine Plant."

A pot of aloe vera was kept on a sunny windowsill to treat minor burns and scratches with its healing gel.

Today, aloe vera is used in products from hand lotion to mouthwash, but in its latest guise, this ancient remedy is taken internally to ease the pain of arthritis.

A natural anti-inflammatory, aloe vera also has the ability to help regenerate tissues, according to Warren Bridges, president of Aloes International Inc.

"If you haven't found the arthritis pain relief you want, you might consider trying something that's centuries old, completely natural and highly recommended by many people with arthritis — aloe vera," says Bridges.

Launched Company
Bridges launched his company in 1981, after aloe vera was effective in treating his wife's recurring kidney problems. Customers soon reported that the company's product, "Catherine's Choice," had a major effect on arthritis pain.

One 73-year-old woman wrote, "The arthritis is seemingly at a standstill in my hands, and I still can walk, climb stairs without a railing and sleep very well at night. I find no side effects."

Another woman with arthritis in her spine said, "There were times that I could not walk. I have been like this for 17 years. I thank God that I am feeling much better."

Bridges says his products are made from organically grown aloe vera leaves that are naturally sun-dried, rather than heated, to preserve the plants' delicate but powerful heating attributes.

Processing begins within four hours of harvesting to retain potency. Dried leaves are ground into a powder that is encapsulated and bottled on-site.

For free information about products offered by Aloes International, send a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dept. NU, 2110 Frederica Drive, Orlando, FL 32812.

Seniors at risk by misusing medications

Studies show the average person over 65 takes between two and seven prescription medicines daily, and has more than 13 prescriptions filled each year. In addition, adults over 65 purchase an estimated 40 percent of over-the-counter medicines.

Such extensive use of medicines may help explain why almost 40 percent of all adverse drug reactions involve people over 60, and almost a quarter of a million older adults are hospitalized each year for harmful reactions to prescription or over-the-counter medicines.

Many of these incidents could be avoided if consumers read the medicine label for important safety information.

These statistics have prompted the Council on Family Health to develop educational materials about the safe and proper use of medicines for older Americans.

"Because older Americans are among the largest consumers of medicines, they have a greater chance of experiencing reactions to medications than any other group," said Council on Family Health president William I. Bergman.

The Council has developed a brochure, Medicines and You: A Guide for Older Americans, designed to help older adults and their families understand the importance of reading the medicine label, how to take medicines safely and effectively, and why it is critical to discuss their concerns and questions with their doctors.

It features tips on how to take medicine properly and includes a medicine chart to help older adults keep track of their medication schedules.

Also included in the brochure is important information about drug interactions. Some older adults are unaware that the different medicines they take may interact with each other, causing the medicine to become less effective than intended, or perhaps even harmful.

In addition, they may not be aware that certain foods and existing medical conditions may affect the way their medication works.

Some key tips in the brochure include:

- Always read the medicine label before taking any prescription or over-the-counter medicine. It should tell you what you need to know about your medicine.

- If you still have questions, ask your pharmacist or doctor. Also ask if there are certain foods, beverages or medicines to avoid while taking particular medicines.

- When your medicine is prescribed, ask your doctor about drug interaction warning signs to note.

- Keep a written record of all medicines being taken — prescription and over-the-counter — in order to prevent potential drug interactions.

- Organize a medicine schedule at home to keep track of dosing times.

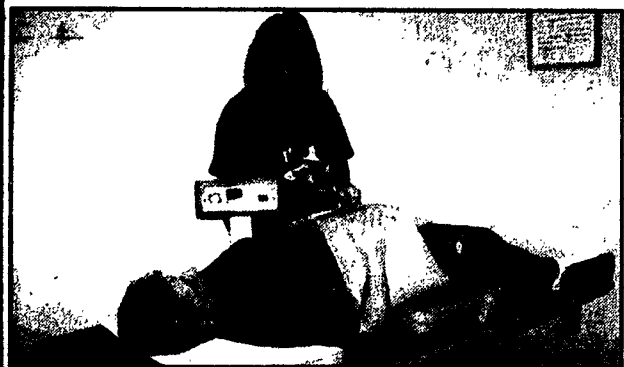

"To get the full therapeutic benefits of medicines — many of which can increase independence and reduce costly hospital stays — they must be taken exactly as directed," says former FDA commissioner Dr. Arthur Hull Hayes Jr., chairman of the Council on Family Health.

Copies of Medicines and You: A Guide for Older Americans are available free by writing to the Council on Family Health, P.O. Box 307, Dept. NU, Coventry, CT 06238.

Health insurance forum filling the gaps in Medicare coverage

Medicare is a vital part of a health insurance portfolio for millions of Americans. However, people must still find ways to pay for the things Medicare doesn't cover, such as deductibles and co-insurance charges. Medicare supplement insurance can help fill these gaps. Few Medicare enrollees may get from any one of 10 standardized Medicare supplement plans approved for sale in their state of residence. Plans start with a basic benefit plan or Plan A, and continue through the comprehensive Plan J, which provides supplemental coverage for nearly all of Medicare's gaps. Which of Medicare's gaps are most important for you to cover? First, identify your needs, then plan that will meet them.

Next, select a company.

It is important to investigate the plan providers in your state in order to find one that a) is financially sound; b) offers competitive rates and top-notch service; and c) offers the plan you want.

The plans and their benefits are the same among all insurance companies offering Medicare supplement coverage, but rates will vary, sometimes significantly.

Find out if the company is using flat rating, entry-age rating or attained-age rating. Flat rating means a company charges everyone the same rate for a particular plan. The flat rate will not increase as you grow older.

Entry-age rating offers different rates for a plan, based on your age at the time of enrollment. Like flat rating, the rate will not increase simply because you grow older.

Attained age rating means your plan's monthly rate will increase based on a predetermined age-rated schedule. Your age when applying for a plan may be used to determine your eligibility.

You'll also want to explore the potential difficulty of enrolling in the plan you want. Some Medicare supplement carriers underwrite all of the standardized plans, but some only underwrite a select few.

If a plan is underwritten, the status of your health at the time of enrollment is used to determine your eligibility. Some companies may only ask a few questions regarding your health background. Others require an extensive medical history.

If you are enrolled or planning to enroll in both Medicare parts A and B, you can enroll in a Medigap policy up to three months prior to your 65th birthday. Several organizations and volunteer groups, including the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP), can provide you with Medicare supplement insurance information. Your state's insurance department is another excellent resource for health insurance information.

For information about supplemental health insurance for people age 50 and over, call the AARP Group Health Insurance Program at 1-800-523-5800, and ask for Operator 181.

Diet and cancer: What's the link?

Cancer once seemed uncontrollable. And while it remains the second leading cause of death in America and affects one out of four American families, much progress has been made in the fight against this disease.

Now researchers are finding evidence that people can do many things to help prevent cancer and reduce their own cancer risk. One of the most important things is eating a healthful diet.

Scientists now estimate that 10 to 60 percent of all cancers are linked to diet. That means that some foods either help promote cancer or protect people against its development.

Fiber, for instance, made a big splash a few years ago when studies discovered that eating enough fiber could reduce the risk of colon and rectal cancers.

Researchers found fiber helped dilute cancer-causing acids and accelerated food's passage through the digestive system.

But fiber isn't the only cancer fighter that research has identified. Laboratory studies also have shown promising results from beta-carotene, found in fruits and vegetables like carrots, broccoli, cantaloupes and squash.

Converted in the body to vitamin A, Beta-carotene helps prevent formation of cancer cells. Other nutrients in foods that show cancer-preventing potential are vitamins C, D and E, calcium, selenium and other chemicals and compounds found in tea, soy foods, garlic and onions.

Eat Five A Day

The American Institute for Cancer Research and other health groups urge people to eat at least five servings of fruits and vegetables a day, plus at least six servings of grain products, all rich in fiber and nutrients.

But there are foods to minimize, as well. Many studies show fat weakens the body's defense against cancer. Current surveys show most Americans eat enough fat to account for 37 percent of their calories each day. Health groups recommend cutting that figure to 30 percent of calories or less in order to reduce the risk for cancer and heart disease.

While researchers today are only beginning to unravel the mysteries and complexities of cancer, an overwhelming amount of research has shown that choosing the right foods can provide a big edge in fighting cancer, and many other health problems.

Healthy eating habits, combined with other good practices like regular exercise, avoiding smoking, maintaining a healthy weight and regular medical checkups all add up to lower cancer risk.

Cancer cures may bloom in the rain forests

What do National Cancer Institute scientists and the shamans and traditional healers of Africa, Madagascar and South America have in common?

They all recognize the curative powers of plants.

The National Cancer Institute (NCI) estimates that about 25 percent of all prescription drugs contain natural plant products. Among them are the Vinca alkaloids, made from the rosy periwinkle plant of Madagascar, which are used in anticancer drugs.

Yew Could Cure You

Cancer researchers' most recent discovery is Taxol, a drug derived from the bark of the Pacific yew tree. Scientists are trying to make Taxol, or compounds that share its properties, from other sources.

NCI has more than 22,000 samples of natural products at its Cancer Research and Development Center in Frederick, Md.

About 6,000 new samples—including plants, marine organisms and microbes—are added each year.

Here's something else scientists and shamans have in common. Traditional healers often make plants into medicinal tea. In Maryland, NCI's researchers grind their specimens and soak them first in an organic solvent and then in water to extract chemicals for testing.

The use of plant teas in folk medicine led the researchers to perform these aqueous extractions, an NCI spokesman says.

The extracts are tested on 60 different cancer cell lines representing such major disease types as lung and colon cancer. Extracts found to inhibit cell or virus growth are analyzed to determine which chemical—or mixture of chemicals—is pharmacologically active.

Further laboratory tests and animal studies determine the ones to be used in trials with patients.

But drugs, unlike tropical flowers, do not blossom overnight. The time between identification of a biologically active compound and its appearance on the market as a prescription drug is often 10 to 15 years.

Gifts from the Tropics

Because of their diversity, plants of tropical and subtropical areas are the focus of NCI's current collecting.

Medical and botanical organizations in 25 African, South-east Asian and Central and South American countries are collaborating in the activities.

Researchers are also looking to plants and marine organisms to help in the fight against AIDS.

"Nature produces complex molecules a chemist would never dream of," the NCI spokesman says. "Once a new molecule from a plant or other organism is isolated, chemists can modify it and try to synthesize it from scratch, as they're doing with Taxol. But without the lead from nature, nobody would have thought of Taxol."

New information sources on menopause

Information on a once-taboo subject is making its way into the mainstream. The release of a best-selling book, a Lifetime television program on hormones and a new home video, What Every Woman Should Now About Menopause, is teaching society that menopause is not all pain and suffering.

"It is high time we uncovered the facts and dispelled the myths about a natural and entirely normal phase in a woman's life."

Menopause and postmenopause should be a time of life to cherish and enjoy," said Alan P. Xenakis, M.D., executive producer of What Every Woman

Should Know About Menopause

Science is also making progress into one of the common effects of menopause—osteoporosis, a disease which causes bone thinning and weakening due to loss of estrogen.

According to the National Osteoporosis Foundation, the disease affects more than 20 million women each year, causing 250,000 hip fractures. While many women have been rendered disabled by the disease, physicians are now prescribing estrogen-replacement therapy to many menopausal and postmenopausal women to prevent bone loss.

One of the most important steps a woman can take in easing the effects of menopause is communicating with her physician, friends and family.

"You can feel good and live well after menopause," added Dr. Xenakis.

Competitor sues Jubilee Casino over land-based investment rule

ASSOCIATED PRESS

A Washington County judge is being asked to order Bayou Caddy's Jubilee Casino to close down until the gambling house puts up a hotel or other amenity to meet the state regulators' land-based investment rule.

Jubilee Casino attorney Danny McDaniel of Jackson calls the lawsuit filed in chancery court as "competitive whining" by Lighthouse Point Casino which has failed to establish a hold in the Greenville gaming market.

Lighthouse's parent company, Greenville Riverboat LLC, filed the suit Thursday against Alpha Gulf Coast, Jubilee's parent company. Lighthouse is asking the court to issue an injunction against the casino until it complies with the infrastructure requirements.

The lawsuit claims the Jubilee failed to meet the Mississippi Gaming Commission's requirements that casinos develop land-based projects amounting to at least 25 percent of the casino cost.

The Jubilee, when licensed in October 1995, had two years to complete such improvements, the lawsuit noted.

The casino's failure to develop land-based projects has caused the Lighthouse to have to shoulder more of an economic burden than the Jubilee, as the Lighthouse is having to service the debt created by construction and operation of its $9.9 million Fairfield Inn, officials said.

"If the defendant is allowed to persist in its unlawful conduct, plaintiff, its law abiding competitor, risks severe and continuing economic injury," Lighthouse attorney John Maxcy of Jackson contends in the lawsuit.

The Lighthouse accuses the Jubilee of unfair competition and false advertising, fraud, negligent misrepresentation and nuisance.

McDaniel said he thinks the complaint is "a case involving unwise competition rather than unfair competition."

"Their lawsuit's silly," McDaniel said. "They can't compete in the market so they're trying to compete in court. But that's their prerogative. We're prepared to compete with them in two places if that's what they want."

He said the Jubilee is in the process of building a hotel now. He said the Jubilee Inn and Suites, a $3 million-plus investment, is expected to open in January.

"It was unwise for the Lighthouse people to enter a market where there were two barges and try to compete," McDaniel said. "A riverboat can't compete with two barges. That's an economic fact in the gaming business. The market share that the Lighthouse has versus the Las Vegas Club and Alpha (the Jubilee) shows that."

Gaming Commissioner Bill Gresham told the Delta Democrat Times newspaper in Greenville that he believes the Jubilee is adhering to the commission's requirements.

"To my knowledge, they are meeting our requirements. It met the 25 percent criteria. They're just behind time."

"I don't mind telling you that we've been on the Jubilee to speed it up," Gresham said.

In addition to its request for an injunction, the Lighthouse also asks the court to order Jubilee to produce its financial records and show how the Jubilee Inn and Suites will satisfy its obligation to invest 25 percent of its casino cost in land-based infrastructure.

Bossier City top revenue producer for Casino Magic Casino Magic Corp. (Nasdaq: CMAG) has reported consolidated net revenues of $19.9 million for the month ended Sept. 30, 1997, an increase of $6.6 million, compared with $13.3 million net revenues for the same period in 1996. Revenues from the Casino Magic's Bossier City casino, which was not in operation during Sept. of 1996, accounted for $7.1 million.

Consolidated earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization ("EBITDA") was $3.3 million in September of 1997, of which $1.4 million was contributed by Casino Magic's Bossier City casino. This compares with consolidated EBITDA of $1.5 million for the same period in 1996.

For September, net income was $0.3 million, or 1 cent per share, including a gain of $1.4 million as a result of the sale of an unused gaming vessel, compared with a net loss of $22.9 million in 1996, which included a pre-tax charge of $27.0 million or 74 cents per share related to the write-off of the investment in a casino in Greece.

For the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1997 revenues were $66.5 million, including $23.8 million from Casino Magic's Bossier City operation, compared with $43.3 million in 1996.

Consolidated EBITDA for the quarter was $15.0 million, an increase of $5.5 million over 1996 period, which was $9.5 million. The EBITDA improvement was primarily the result of the new contribution from Bossier City operation.

For the quarterly period ended Sept. 30, 1997, net income was $2.7 million, or 8 cents per share compared with net loss of $20.7 million, or 57 cents per share, for the same period in 1996.

For the nine-month period ended Sept. 30, 1997, revenues were $198.2 million, including $68.5 million from Casino Magic's Bossier City operation, compared with $128.8 million in 1996. The comparative nine-month period in 1996 included revenues of $3.6 million from the Greece and South Dakota operations.

Consolidated EBITDA for the nine-months period ended Sept. 30, 1997 was $33.3 million compared with $29.9 million in the 1996 nine-month period, which included a $2.0 million in net contribution from the Greece and South Dakota operations.

For the nine-month period ended Sept. 30, 1997, net loss was $2.2 million, or 6 cents per share, compared with net loss of $17.4 million, or 48 cents per share for the same period in 1996.

Casino Magic reported that the construction at its 378-room hotel in Biloxi remains within budget, and should be completed and opened in early 1998.

Casino Magic also reported that at the end of September 1997, its consolidated cash balance was $37.5 million, including the proceeds from the sale of the Crescent City Queen of $11.7 million. It is anticipated that the $11.7 million will be used to enhance and further develop the Bossier City operation, which will include a hotel.

Ed Ernest, president and CEO, said, "We are pleased with the performance of this quarter and the improvement over the last three quarters. We are hopeful that this trend will continue and look forward to the hotel opening in Biloxi and the start of the hotel construction in Bossier City."

Casino Magic Corp., with principal offices in Bay St. Louis, operates gaming casinos through subsidiaries in Bay St. Louis and Biloxi; Bossier City, La.; Neuquen City and San Martin de los Andes, Argentina.

2B-THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1997

Bob Harmon Football Forecast

NFL Forecast

Sunday and Monday, Oct. 26-27

Arizona, 19—Tennessee, 14
(Sunday) The Cardinals have won four of the six games they've played against the Oilers, most recently in 1994. With the exception of Tennessee's running game, this won't feature a lot of offense.

Carolina, 17—Atlanta, 10
Speaking of struggling offenses, the Panthers and Falcons scored only field goals in their Week Two matchup, won by Carolina 9-6. The Panthers can win two from Atlanta for the first time.

Dallas, 24—Philadelphia 22
Six weeks ago, in one of the strangest Monday-night finishes ever, the Eagles blew an easy field goal as time ran out and handed the Cowboys a 21-20 win. This one should be just as close.

Denver, 29—Buffalo, 16
The last time the Broncos and Bills met, in '95, Denver beat Buffalo for the first time in the '90s, 22-7. The Bills don't have the defensive line to corral the league's best ground game.

Kansas City, 26—St. Louis, 18
Kansas City, too, will win by running the ball against a St. Louis defense that would rather see passing. The Rams are four for five against the Chiefs, last beating them three years ago.

Miami, 21—Chicago, 10
Yes, the Dolphins are struggling, but not the way the Bears are struggling. Miami has taken five of seven games in this series, though Chicago won most recently, in '94. This may get ugly.

Minnesota, 27—Tampa Bay, 24
Despite Vikings QB Brad Johnson's career-high 334 yards of passing in Week Three, the Buccaneers handled Minnesota with relative ease, 28-14. But T.B. hasn't swept the Vikes in seven years.

N.Y. Giants, 14—Cincinnati 9
The Bengals have beaten the Giants all four times they've met in Ohio, and N.Y. won for the only time in this series at home in '94. The Giants are hardly superior, but they'll scrape by.

Pittsburgh, 28—Jacksonville, 21
A week after the Cowboys-Eagles Monday nighter (above), the Steelers muffed their winning field goal and the Jaguars turned it into a TD, prevailing 30-21. Pittsburgh won't allow a sweep.

San Diego, 23—Indianapolis, 19
We try to be optimistic when two inept offenses meet two weak defenses, hoping they'll produce a great game. Last year the Chargers benefited from five Colts turnovers, beating them 26-19.

San Francisco, 34—New Orleans, 14
Taking the ball away from the Saints eight times last month but without much offense of their own, the 49ers embarrassed N.O. 33-7. S.F. has won seven of its last eight against the Saints.

Seattle, 24—Oakland, 13
The Seahawks and Raiders have split their series the past three years. In '96 each won on the road, Oakland 27-21 and Seattle 28-21. If the Raiders passing game is on, we'll be very wrong.

Washington, 26—Baltimore, 13
One-dimensional on both offense and defense (favoring the pass, stopping only the run), the Ravens can't fool the Redskins, who last hosted — and beat — a team from Baltimore 16 years ago.

Green Bay, 27—New England, 23
(Monday) The rematch of last season's Super Bowl (Packers 35, Patriots 21) won't be quite so easy a win for G.B., with N.E. as good or better. The Pats have won three of five regular-season battles.

College Highlights for Oct. 25

The wildest place to watch a football game this Saturday may just be Spartan Stadium in East Lansing, Mich., where Michigan State hosts Michigan in the biggest game of their storied rivalry in years. The Spartans have been known to knock off the Wolverines as unranked underdogs — as they did in 1995, 28-25, when Michigan was No. 7 — but it's been eight years since both teams entered this grudge match ranked in the Top 25 and 18 years since they were both in the Top 20.

Last year in Ann Arbor, then-ninth-ranked Michigan won 45-29, led by QB Scott Dreisbach's four TD passes. The Wolverines took advantage of five Michigan State turnovers, and scored three TD's in a span of 2:01 of the second quarter. This year we're picking Michigan by only a field goal.

You want more close games? We've got 'em. In '96 Alabama bombed Mississippi 37-0, amassing 489 total yards while allowing just 158. Ole Miss has lost seven in a row in this series, the last three by a combined score of 81-19, but this weekend, at home in University, Miss., the Rebels will at least give the Crimson Tide a scare.

And how about the battle for bragging rights in the Big East between Virginia Tech and West Virginia? We're swallowing hard and picking the Mountaineers to win in Morgantown, W.V., by the slimmest of home-field advantages, one point. The Tech Hokies have won three in a row from West Virginia, last year by a score of 31-14 in Blacksburg, Va.

In the Big 12 there are two big, sure-to-be-close games between North and South division teams. Colorado should run its winning streak against Texas to six games in Austin, Tex., but not without a fight. (In '96 the Buffaloes outlugged the Longhorns 28-24). And Oklahoma may come within an eyelash of upsetting Kansas State in Norman, Okla.

Last year the Sooners were down 35-7 when then began a stirring comeback that fell just short of embarrassing the No. 16 Wildcats. Quarterbacks Brian Kavanagh of K-State and Eric Moore of Oklahoma combined for eight TD passes as the Wildcats prevailed 42-35.

There's another close one in the Western Conference, where surprising New Mexico will edge Utah. Which brings us to... the usual butt-kickings, of which there are several. Florida state will beat up on Virginia, Nebraska on Kansas, Ohio State on Northwestern, Iowa on Indiana and UCLA on California. They can't all be close.

Eagles set sights on homecoming

After having little trouble disposing of two of Conference USA's preseason favorites, the Southern Miss Golden Eagles get a week off before taking aim at league upstart Tulane. The Green Wave currently stands 2-0 in C-USA play and will host East Carolina this Saturday at the Superdome.

Should Tulane defeat ECU, then the game with the Eagles will be for outright control of the Conference USA race, and will give the winning team the inside track to the Liberty Bowl. The game between USM and Tulane sets up to be a classic match-up of offensive firepower against defensive pressure.

Tulane currently stands first in the conference in scoring of offense and total offense, but the Eagles will counter with the top scoring defense and the second ranked total defense in the league. The Wave is also first in the league in third down conversions, while USM ranks first in third down defense.

Southern Miss has some offensive weapons of its own to throw at Tulane. Senior Harold Shaw leads Conference USA, and is 39th in the nation, in running at 87.0 yards per game. USM also has the third ranked kickoff return man in all of Division I football in Eric Booth, who is averaging a cool 33.8 yards per return this year.

The Eagles have dominated the series in recent years, winning nine of the last 10 games. The one Tulane victory during that stretch came in 1993 in Hattiesburg, spoiling the Eagles homecoming.

Eagles, Wave to be televised

The Southern Miss Golden Eagles will make their fourth national television appearance of the season Oct. 25 when they host Tulane at M. M. Roberts Stadium.

Fox Sports Net announced that the game will be televised on the FX Network as part of Conference USA's Game of the Week package. Game time is set for 2:30 p.m. CDT, which is a change from the originally scheduled start time of 5 p.m.

BETWEEN THE LINES

By Richard Meek

Hancock High's District 7,4A championship hopes were dealt a critical but not fatal setback last Friday when Petal stunned the Hawks 35-27.

Hancock entered the game unbeaten and ranked 14th in the state. But Petal made a statement early by taking its opening drive for a touchdown, and similar to Ole Miss' shocker in Baton Rouge last week, the Panthers never lost their intensity.

The Hawks may have been guilty of looking ahead to this week's showdown with first place Picayune in what was shaping up to be a battle of district unbeaten. However, because of the Hawks' schedule after the Picayune game, the loss to Petal did little damage to Hancock's title hopes.

If the Hawks should knock off the home-standing Maroon Tide, a lofty order at best, then Hancock would climb into a tie with Picayune and have the advantage in the first tie-breaker, that being head-to-head competition. Hancock closes out with district weak sisters Bay High and Columbia, two games the Hawks should win.

If Hancock knocks off Picayune, then the worst the Hawks should finish in district would be 6-1, which would earn Hancock the district title. The Hawks' challenge is clear: beat Picayune and clear space for a district trophy.

First, however, Hancock must defeat Picayune, and that is a formidable task. Picayune does nothing fancy. Rather, coach Dodd Lee prefers to utilize a split-back set and run straight at the defense, relying on the speed of Nick Wash and the inside power of Tommy Lee.

Quarterback Jonathan Lott has the size and the arm to be effective, but is erratic at times.

The key for Hancock will be to find a way to jump on Picayune early, and force Picayune to win with Lott's arm. In that case, advantage Hancock.

Hawk coach Rocky Gaudin is known for his defensive genius, but his mettle will be severely tested by the potent Tide. His best scheme may be to show eight- and nine-man fronts and dare Lott to pass.

Offensively, Hancock's dynamic running tandem of Darryl Williams and John Woods will have to be effective if the Hawks are to have any chance. Picayune's defense held Bay High to minus eight yards in the first quarter, and one total yard through three quarters in a 38-7 victory last week.

There was no doubt in the preseason that the two teams would decide the district championship on Oct. 24. Despite the Hawks' shocking loss to Petal, and Picayune's earlier forfeits, that scenario still has not changed.

A Hancock win and the district championship trophy will reside in Kiln.

Friday Forecast

Bay High hosts Columbia — The Tigers are a team badly in need of a victory. It seems as if anything bad that could happen to them, has. Bay High continues to be plagued by its own mistakes. Although this is the Tigers' homecoming, the result will be no different. Columbia 24, Bay High 6

St. Stanislaus at Petal

The Rocks are fresh off of their first victory of the year and may catch the Panthers still basking in the afterglow of the Hancock upset. (Can you say LSU-Ole Miss?) However, SSC faces the rest of the season without its best quarterback. Petal is not a fun place to be on Friday night. Petal 27, SSC 14

Hancock at Picayune

This is the biggest game in Gaudin's four years at Hancock. Quite simply, a district title is on the line. But the Hawks will be no match for the Tide's huge offensive and defensive lines. There is no finesse in Picayune's offensive scheme. With their size, there is none needed. Picayune 17, Hancock 13.

Last Week 2-2. Season: 17-3.

Bay Jr. High wins city title

Bay Junior High won the city championship with a 46-6 win over St. Stanislaus Monday night. The Tigers had defeated the junior Rocks 41-8 earlier in the year.

Bay Junior High also won the county title by sweeping Hancock by 24-0 and 14-0 scores.

In other junior high action, Hancock shut out Pearl River Central 14-0.

Charles Hawkins opened the scoring for Bay High on a 31-yard run. Monroe Jordan's 22-yard run and Terrance Thomas' two-point conversion gave the Tigers a 14-0 first quarter lead.

Hawkins threw a 61-yard pass to Gary Vincent and Thomas added the two-point conversion to give the Tigers a 22-0 lead.

Guy Alleman returned an interception 34 yards and Jordan tacked on the conversion for a 30-6 Tiger lead in the third quarter. Charley Cox scored later in the quarter on a 12-yard run and added the two-point conversion for a 38-6 lead.

Brandon Strong's three-yard run and two-point conversion closed out the scoring in the fourth quarter.

Bay High, 6-1, faces Long Beach at Long Beach Monday at 5:30 p.m. for the conference championship. Earlier, the Tigers dealt Long Beach its only loss.

Madhava Thigpen scored on a 90-yard kickoff return and Brandon Necaise on a one-yard run for Hancock.

Rebels ranked despite limited scholarship players

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Despite having fewer than 70 scholarship players, Mississippi is ranked among the nation's best teams.

The Rebels (4-2, 2-2 Southeastern Conference) are No. 25 in the latest Associated Press poll, their first ranking since an NCAA probation three years ago ravaged the program. And their only losses are on the road to other ranked teams.

"We have a lot of character and heart," Ole Miss coach Tommy Tuberville said. "That is a good thing because our athletic ability is average for this conference. We are not a great team. Our team is only as good as with everybody playing together."

Ole Miss' ranking came after Saturday's 36-21 upset at LSU, which dropped from eighth to No. 17 in the new poll. After near misses at No. 8 Tennessee and No. 11 Auburn earlier this season, Tuberville said the Rebels finally "got over the hump" by defeating a ranked team.

The upset victory and subsequent ranking are just another step in the rebuilding process.

The Rebels had just been placed on NCAA probation for violations that occurred under a former coach when Tuberville took over in December 1994. Two years of scholarship reductions and other sanctions, which were completed last season, now have the Rebels with well fewer than the NCAA maximum 85 scholarships.

Tuberville's biggest chore now is to keep the Rebels focused. While expressing excitement about the latest accomplishments, Tuberville spent part of his weekly press conference Monday trying to temper the excitement.

"We are all still smiling from this week's win," Tuberville said. "We are proud of what happened. It was a long time coming for guys who have worked hard for several years. This was a total team effort."

And the fans have responded—from several hundred waiting when the team returned to Oxford late Saturday night to the continuing flood of congratulatory calls that forced the coaches to disconnect their office phones Monday so that they could prepare for the next game.

But by the end of his 25-minute briefing with reporters, Tuberville was trying to make sure everybody was looking forward.

"We have got a big game in front of us," Tuberville said. "We are all excited, but we have to get past that. We have a lot of football still to be played."

The coach only has to look at LSU as an example.

A week before losing to Ole Miss, LSU upset then-No. 1 Florida 28-21 and moved into the top 10. The loss not only resulted in a tumble in the poll, but cost LSU a chance to take over the SEC West Division lead.

"We are excited about winning on the road and being ranked in the top 25," Tuberville said. "But like I told our players, it doesn't mean anything until the end of the year."

The Rebels return home Saturday for the first time in four weeks, when they play host to struggling Alabama (3-3, 1-3), a former Top 25 team that has lost three of its last four games.
